

ABOUT THE STATE

HAPPENINGS OF INTEREST FROM DIFFERENT SECTIONS

There were five fire alarms in Rutland during July.

Mrs. Eunice Kingsbury is dead at West Brattleboro at the age of 90.

Rutland is to have a new shirt factory which will start with 50 hands working.

The government thermometer at Enosburg Falls registered 93 degrees during Sunday.

Between 30 and 40 people attended the reunion of the Ross families at Lake St. Catherine, near Poultney, on Sunday.

There are this year more than 160 demonstrations of soy beans throughout the state and 18 new varieties have been tried.

The annual session of the Universalist convention of Vermont and the Province of Quebec will be held at St. Johnsbury Aug. 28-31.

Harold Alexander Hodder of Brattleboro was found dead in his bed Sunday morning by his wife, death being due to heart trouble.

The Rutland board of health has asked the city council to adopt an emergency ordinance to protect the city from infantile paralysis.

Among the campers at Caspian lake, Greenboro, there are 11 members of the Princeton university faculty and their families now in camp.

Rutland has given over the city park on Main street to the children as a recreation field until a more suitable location can be obtained.

On Sunday last Mrs. Goldie Swasey of West Danville kept track of the vehicles that passed in front of her house and counted 70 automobiles, 15 motorcycles and 30 teams.

Frank Plath of Albany, N. Y., a summer visitor in Shrewsbury, paid $19 fine and costs in Rutland municipal court Monday morning for having caught a single short trout.

The absence of two members of the Rutland police force on the Mexican border has delayed the vacations of those at home. No specials can be obtained to fill in, because the city pays but $2 a day.

Misses Ray Elliot Levi and Anna Kuttner of New York, who have been stopping at the Wallomase inn in Old Bennington, are making a four days' tramp over the Bennington section of the Long Trail alone.

Traveling passenger and freight agents of various railroads came to Brattleboro Monday night to inspect the new station and to enjoy a banquet. They were taken in hand and shown about the town in automobiles.

A. L. Jones, formerly of St. Albans, has been appointed principal of the boys' high school of Brooklyn, N. Y., a school of over 3,000 pupils. Of the eight high schools in Brooklyn, two of them have Vermont principals.

William C. Mason has resigned as manager of the Wallingford plant of the American Fork & Hoe Co. after 38 years' continual service with them. Mr. Mason is still a director and a second vice-president of the corporation.

The annual encampment of the 1st regiment of Vermont, Uniform Rank, K. of P., and the annual convention of the grand lodge of the Knights of Pythias of the domain of Vermont will be held at Bellows Falls Aug. 26-30.

Warwick S. Carpenter of Bennington, publicity writer for George D. Pratt, the New York conservation commissioner, is in a hospital at Saratoga recovering from severe bruises received in an automobile mishap Sunday.

The Rutland Business college has placed 70 of its students in office since last September and Prin. L. J. Eggleston states that in the past 12 months he has had 124 calls for office help. Forty per cent of these calls are from out of town.

Nelson, the two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Barnes of St. Albans, swallowed a quantity of paracetamol Saturday but is recovering fast because his condition was discovered promptly and he was given an emetic by his mother.

A. M. Sheldon of North Adams, Mass., was taken from Jacksonville, Fla., Saturday afternoon and arraigned there on the charge of fishing without a license in Roberts' pond. The case was continued to Friday, with bail fixed at $50.

William French of Rutland is being held under bond of $500 for shooting and killing a poodle belonging to A. Newman, a horse dealer. Several children were playing with the animal when the shots were fired, and the police were notified.

William Decassi, a colored man who has been bootblackening in Brattleboro this summer, was sentenced in Brattleboro municipal court Saturday to serve from four to eight months at the house of correction for deserting his wife and living with another woman.

State Forester A. F. Hawes has some of his force busy, especially in southern Vermont, fighting the blister rust, one of the greatest foes of the white pine. The department was compelled to destroy its entire plant at Woodstock in order to get rid of the pest. The federal government appropriated $10,000 to fight the tree disease and of this Vermont's share amounts to between $700 and $800. The blister rust came to this country in 1908 or 1909 when the government got a great many seedlings from Germany.

R. W. Daniels is the only Vermont name to appear among a list of 308 rookies at Plattsburg who took the examinations for commission as second lieutenants to appear among a list of 308 rookies at Plattsburg and will spend it in Brookfield Osgood's this week.

Joseph Gilbert, aged 35, and employed on the construction of the Bennington and Hoosick Falls state road, was found dead beside the track of the Chatham division of the Rutland railroad early Sunday morning, apparently having been hit by a northbound midnight freight.

Aside from Catholic institutions, there remain but 14 academies in Vermont. Vermont academy's failure to open this fall will mark the passing of another of these institutions. Their places have been filled by high schools, which now number 70, and which are publicly supported.

A home project club fair will feature Lyndon's celebration of Labor day. The affair will take place on an extensive grounds of Ye Olde Brick Tea Shoppe and there will be a parade, speeches, stock judging by County Agent Wood and demonstrations by the boys and girls.

Programs are out for the 16th annual session of the Vermont Association of Undertakers at Burlington Aug. 30-Sept. 1. Thursday the undertakers will go to the World in Motion theatre, where they will watch films that will show them the proper method of conducting funeral services.

Frank Vigneaux of Rutland was arrested Monday charged with the larceny of $175. It is alleged that he found a pocketbook with the $175 therein and that he appropriated the contents. The money belonged to T. B. Wheeler, a Rutland merchant, who dropped the pocketbook some time ago on his way home.

Aubrey L. Wallace, for some time employed in the general offices of the Central Vermont railway at St. Albans, has been promoted to a sergeant's position in C battery, Royal Canadian horse artillery, which is at present stationed at Petawawa camp, Ontario, preparatory for leaving for the European war front.

F. H. Dewart, an expert from Burlington, has charge of the surveying and investigation of lines relative to the boundary discussion between Vermont and New Hampshire and will put two gangs in the field at once. There are over 200 miles of river to cover, but with good luck the task will be done by snow time.

Pres. Guy Potter Benton of the University of Vermont is endeavoring to get Commander Evangeline Booth to come to Burlington the last week in October or the first in September for a series of Salvation Army meetings that are to be held then. Col. Samuel Brengle of New York and Col. Walter F. Jenkins, editor of the War Cry, along with numbers of lesser lights in Salvationist circles, will be urged to come.

Twenty-nine men in Lamotte county have executed articles of association for a corporation to be known as the Farmer's Mutual Telephone company, Inc., and have petitioned the public service commission for the right to own and operate telephone lines in the counties of Lamotte, Franklin and Chittenden. The public service commission has granted the petition for a hearing, and it will be held in Cambridge on September 22.

There have been only 30 forest fires in Vermont since last March as compared with 128 last year during the same period but with continued hot weather more fires are feared. The largest fire was in Rockingham and burned over 200 acres. Practically no trees on state forest lands have been burned this season. With the exception of Grand Isle, every county in the state is usually an annual sufferer from fires. The new station at Mount Pico, erected last fall, has been in working order this summer and commands a considerable territory.
